Graduate School of Agricultural and Life Sciences, The University of Tokyo, seeks PhD candidates for the School's International Program in Agricultural Development Studies (IPADS) for the Academic Year 2022-2023 (enrolling in October 2022) according to the following Rules of Admission.

1. Program Overview

The IPADS PhD program is a doctoral program that is taught entirely in English in the Graduate School of Agricultural and Life Sciences. The program equips the students to be global leaders in the agricultural sector who have the capacity to identify and implement solutions to various agricultural, environmental, and resource management issues in developing countries. Students engage in a truly interdisciplinary curriculum filled with cutting-edge researches from all subdisciplines covering agriculture, encompassing both natural and social sciences. As fully integrated members of the School's Department of Global Agricultural Sciences, IPADS students have numerous opportunities to participate in seminars and international symposia, and to work collaboratively with the faculty members and fellow students, including those from the School's other departments and graduate programs. Approximately four students will be admitted for the Academic Year 2022-2023.

2. Eligibility

To be eligible to apply for this program, the applicant must meet all the following criteria.

(1) Academic qualification

A Master's degree or equivalent is required as of 30 September 2022. The admission automatically becomes void if a student who has applied prior to the conferment of a Master's degree fails to attain it by 30 September 2022.

(2) English language proficiency

A very high level of English language proficiency adequate to engage in world-class postgraduate study is required.

(3) Academic records and research plan

Applicants must possess an excellent academic record and a sound plan for their PhD research that suits the program's philosophy.

(4) Date of arrival

All starting students must arrive in Tokyo by the designated date in September 2022. For those who cannot arrive in Tokyo by September 2022 must obtain a late arrival permission from the IPADS Office. Permission will be only granted for special circumstances. If a student fail to come to Japan by the designated date or to obtain a permission, it may result in cancellation of the admission offer.

Military employees, whether soldiers or civilians, are ineligible to apply.

3. Fees and Tuition

The following fees and tuition are payable.

(1) Examination fee (payable on being shortlisted): ¥10,000

(2) Enrollment fee (payable on admission): ¥282,000

(3) Tuition (payable annually): ¥520,800

These fees and tuition are correct as of October 2021 and subject to change based on revisions of university regulations.

Payment of examination fee and enrollment fee is not required for students who are currently enrolled in a Master degree program or a professional degree program at the University of Tokyo.

4. Financial Support and Student Services

(1) The examination fee, enrollment fee, and tuition are waived for the current recipients of the Japanese Government (Monbukagakusho, hereafter MEXT) Scholarships on submission of a certificate showing their scholarship status.

(2) A limited number of MEXT Scholarships may be available to outstanding applicants. These scholarships cover the enrollment fee and the tuition as well as living expenses. The examination fee should be paid by the MEXT Scholarship applicants at the time of application for IPADS and shall be refunded later on submission of a certificate showing their scholarship status. Selection will be conducted concurrently with selection for admission.

(3) The University also offers a tuition waiver program for other students who meet certain criteria. Students can apply to this program after the enrollment.

(4) For all other students, it is their own responsibility to secure funds for fees and tuition. While students, after enrollment, are eligible for internal and external scholarships, including the University of Tokyo Fellowship, the School does not guarantee that all students are financially assisted.

(5) Student services, including housing information service and limited health services, are provided to all students.

5. Application Process

The selection will be carried out in two separate rounds (Round One and Two) as per the following timetable. Applicants who apply for both rounds are considered in both, unless admitted through Round One.
